

OUT OF THE JAWS OF DEATH.

JACKSONVILLE BEGINS TO SHAKE OFF
YELLOW JACK'S GRIP.

The Fever Is Now of a Milder Type and Less Cases are Reported—Business Resumes in Some Quarters of the Town and Citizens Move More Freely About the Streets—Mr. King-Hall Out of Danger.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 1.—One death and twelve new cases of yellow fever have been reported since the health office opened this morning. All of the twelve are colored, and for the past week from two-thirds to four-fifths of the new cases have been colored. But there have been more deaths among the white people than there have been among the colored folk.

The fever did not begin its work among the colored population until it had half spent itself among the whites, and for the next few days there will probably be great mortality among the negroes, for of the thousand cases now under treatment fully 800 are colored, though the fever seems to be of a milder type than at the beginning of the epidemic.

King-Hall, the gallant reporter of THE WORLD, is reported as at the turning point in the fever, with every condition in his favor. His case excited much interest among the people here, who appreciate his heroism and the work he has done for them.

With the beginning of the week business resumed by a number of houses. Stores that have been closed for six weeks were opened again this morning, and the city is resuming a little of its wonted appearance, though it is truly only a languid, convalescent city yet.

And what wonder, when it is considered that more than two thousand of the people who make our city have been into the very jaws of death so recently?

The weather continues cold, and the enforced convalescents are obliged to wear light overcoats, though it is not yet cold enough to kill the microbes and stop the fever. It is bad weather, too, for those patients who are not entirely freed of fever, and they are compelled to remain by their glowing grates, lest a cold and a relapse should set in.

The authorities are devising means of escape of convalescents to the North without the necessity of spending ten days at a quarantined camp, and an exodus will probably occur in a few days.

Substantial pecuniary relief continues to flow in, and Jacksonville is as well off as could be expected, with courage and hope in her heart.

CLAIMS HE HAD DUPLICATES.

The Defense Dr. Reynolds Will Offer in the Matter of His Insurance Prosecutions.

District-Attorney Fellows has set Wednesday, in the Court of General Sessions, for the trial of Dr. Reynolds and wife, who are charged with making a false statement for the recovery of insurance on their country home at Flushing.

Mrs. Reynolds is a daughter of the late millionaire, Oliver Charles, and the foreign insurance companies allege that nine oil paintings, a parlor organ, a lap robe and a large and valuable music box were removed from the Flushing house to the New York residence a few days before the fire, and that as this is the second time the Flushing house was burned there is evidence to warrant the feeling that the place was fired purposely by some one to secure the insurance.

The property which has been in the possession of Property Clerk Harris for many months will be taken to court for identification. The rumor at Police Headquarters this morning was that Mrs. Reynolds would demand and receive a separate trial, and that the insurance companies did not propose to prosecute her, contenting themselves with resting the questions of liability for the destruction of the property on the case they have worked up against Dr. Reynolds. The doctor denies the serious charges of the insurance companies, and will endeavor to show that the duplicates of the property claimed to have been destroyed by fire in Flushing.

BUSINESS RUSHINGLY RESUMED.

The Court-Houses and the Naturalization Bureau Fall of Activity.

Business was resumed to-day with a rush in the big Tweed Court-House. Eighteen courts were all in session at once, and the corridors and chambers of New York's fifteen-million-dollar court were thronged by lawyers and their clerks. Little was done, however, beyond reading calendars and fixing dates for the trial of cases.

The four parts of the City Court also began their new year in the City Hall.

The Naturalization Bureau in the white Court-house was more than busy to-day, long files of men who had lived in America the necessary five years, and were anxious to assume the responsibilities of citizenship, extending through the corridors, down the stairs and fairly into the street. Never before in the history of the city have there been so many applications for citizenship certificates as this morning, and the Bureau has been very busy all through the summer months.

The Menace's Manly Sports.

(From the Philadelphia Record.)
Mrs. Scrubbin—Oh, dear! I'll be so glad when the hunting and fishing season is over. My husband is awfully fond of such manly sports, but he always overdoes it. I should think he would learn by experience.
"Well, he don't. He got back last night so tired he could hardly walk, and this morning he's upstairs with the worst headache, and he can't get a thing. Such a time as he has of it, keeping out of the way of snakes. He thinks he's 'em yet."

"Try Ayer's Pills"

For Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and Gout. Stephen Lansing, of Yonkers, N. Y., says: "Recommended as a cure for chronic Constipation, Ayer's Pills have relieved me from that trouble and also from Gout. If every victim of this disease would head only three words of mine, I could banish Gout from the land. These words would be—'Try Ayer's Pills.'"

"By the use of Ayer's Pills alone, I cured myself permanently of rheumatism which had troubled me several months. These Pills are at once harmless and effectual, and, I believe, would prove a specific in all cases of indigestion."

Rheumatism.

No medicine could have served me in better stead,"—C. C. Rock, Corner, Ayoville Parish, La.

C. F. Hopkins, Nevada City, writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills for sixteen years, and I think they are the best Pills in the world. We keep a box of them in the house all the time. They have cured me of sick headache and neuralgia since taking Ayer's Pills. I have been free from these complaints."

"I have derived great benefit from Ayer's Pills. Five years ago I was taken so ill with rheumatism that I was unable to do any work. I took three boxes of Ayer's Pills and was entirely cured. Since that time I am never without a box of these pills."—Peter Christensen, Sherwood, Wis.

IN THIS DEPARTMENT WE UNDERSHALL ALL COMPETITORS AND SHOW A GRAND ASSORTMENT OF FINE GOODS.

A DETROIT DIRECTOR, HE WAS.

And He Swore When He Heard What Leadley Gave the Caddy.

A story rather extensively circulated among the frequenters of the uptown hotels is about a caddy, his customer and his bill. The caddy's name is not mentioned, nor is that of the man who engaged the cab. The bill presented was for $2.

The story begins at the Polo Grounds, just previous to the close of the New York-Detroit ball game. Manager Leadley, of the Detroit, came out from the grounds, engaged a carriage and asked to be driven to the Oriental Hotel situated on the corner of Thirty-ninth street and Broadway. He was promptly taken there, and, after settling his account with the driver and giving him a liberal tip, he went to his room in the hotel and from thence to the dining-room.

That was all Leadley actively had to do with the case. Passively, he figures later on. Now, shortly after the Detroit Manager had taken passage from the Polo Grounds, a cab of comfortable size and wearing, among other things, a black m-tache, rushed wildly out from the One Hundred and Tenth street exit at the grounds and, shouldered for a carriage, saying that he wished to overtake the Manager of the Detroit, who was en route to his hotel.

He jumped into the nearest carriage, and, after yelling out: "Oriental, and drive like hell!" was joggled along through the park, eventually arriving at Leadley's stopping place. Caddy then asked for his fare, and the unknown handed him a rather mutilated $1 silver certificate, upon which caddy very properly kicked and demanded twice that amount.

The unknown protested, but finally told caddy to wait a moment until the other cab could be obtained from the hotel office, and then disappeared within doors.

When next seen the unknown was smoking out from the side door of the hotel, and it was Leadley's driver, waiting on the corner for a fare and overhearing the row, who saw him and who promptly tipped the news to the caddy.

Both cabbies then started in pursuit. A stern chase is usually a long one, but the pursuers overhauled their prey at the corner of Fourth street and Sixth avenue, and grasping an arm each they dragged their captive back to the hotel.

The clerk was appealed to, and he decided that $2 was a proper charge, upon which Leadley's driver exclaimed:

"Why, der manager giv' me a five?"
Then it was that the unknown partly betrayed his identity by screaming out with every breath: "Well, by the great horn spoon! Gave you $5, did he? Do you know who I am? Well, I'm a director of the Detroit team and I own that Leadley, and my property will have to do some settling up at the end of the season? Here's a half dollar more, and it's every cent you'll get!"

And with that his Directorship wrathfully strode from the hotel and left the poor jehu still half a dollar short.

A Jaw-Breaking Politician.

Robert Clancy, of 171 Mulberry street, and Joseph Keilman, of 181 Mott street, had a political dispute on Mulberry street. Keilman, becoming angered at something Clancy said, struck him with a cane, and Clancy, in turn, struck Keilman in the face. Clancy had a knife in his pocket, and he drew it and threatened Keilman with it. Keilman was arrested and taken to the Tombs. Clancy was held in $500 bail for trial.

A Too Sensitive Dairyman.

"How much water do you put in your milk?" asked a man, standing in front of Beethoven Hall, this morning, of Milkman Charles Fischer.

Fischer threw the cover of the milk can at the asker, who missed him and broke a large pane of glass in the door of the Beethoven Hall. Anthony Sommer, the proprietor, had Fischer arrested, and in the Essex Market Police Court he was fined $10.

Jersey City Jottings.

The Board of Education of the sinking Fund transferred $45,000 to the Board of Finance this morning. The Board of Education will meet this afternoon to take action in reference to the death of A. S. Jewell, who died suddenly Saturday. Mr. Jewell was the first County Superintendent of Schools. The school will be closed to-morrow, when his funeral will be held.

Peter Hagau, who nearly killed James Harris, of 221 Madison street, last May, was held for trial by justice sitting in the morning. Hagau, dressed in a blue suit, and wearing a white shirt and a white necktie, was brought into the court, and was held in $500 bail for trial.

GRANT & WARD'S ASSETS.

A Suit Against the Casino by the Receiver of the Dead Firm.

Justice Lawrence, of the Supreme Court, will on Thursday try a suit brought by Julian T. Davies as receiver of Grant & Ward against the New York Concert Company (limited) for $300.

The defendants are the owners of the Casino, and Grant & Ward held some of the bonds of the company, on which $300 worth of coupons matured a short time previous to their failure. Receiver Davies sues to recover this sum. W. B. Hornblower appearing as his counsel.

The defense is that there was no presentation of the bonds for payment, and David Leventritt will defend the suit.

Signs of Autumn.

Seems to me you're too old. You must be near eighty!"

In the Heart of Africa.

(From Harper's Magazine.)
Oh, fare you well, my sweetheart!
Farewell for a year and a day;
For I'm going to sail on the Sankara,
To the heart of Africa.

I'm going to capture a cockatoo
On the banks of the broad Kasai,
And take a swim in the bright Senegal,
In the heart of Africa.

I'm going to camp with the wild Zulu,
And shoot with an assegai,
And chase the spiral-horned koodoo,
In the heart of Africa.

I'm going to paddle my own canoe
On the river of the Niger,
Till I come to the city of Sankara,
In the heart of Africa.

If I don't return, O sweetheart true,
At the end of a year and a day,
Think not I am drowned in the Sankara,
In the heart of Africa.

For there may be reasons unknown to you
Why I cannot get away;
I may marry the Queen of Karaga,
In the heart of Africa.
